Guess the missing words, then listen and check (or check with the original text). Don't worry if you can't figure out all of them.

Daniel Kish is riding his through the streets in Long Beach, California, on a Monday morning. He stops at, waits, then goes on. Morning can be dangerous for anyone on a, but Daniel Kish is! He lost both when he was thirteen months old, but he has himself to "see" with sound.

Daniel makes a special with his mouth and The sound hits things like cars and people, then comes back to his Different things change the sound that comes, so Daniel knows what they are. Tryyour eyes when you're ain a car. If you are along a quiet street, you can hear the sound change when you go something big – like a house or car. Of course, Daniel Kish is very, very good doing this. His uses sound to make a picture of the Daniel can tell things are,fast they are moving, they are big or small, and eventhey are made of.

Daniel has manypeople to use sound in this way. He swimming, he dances and he likes to ride hisin the mountains, away from any roads. first, many people don't think that he can be!
